I'm the manager of a hotel.

You're staying for two nights?

Look,
Sunny.

I meet a lot of interesting people that way.

She's right.
He's
handsome...
But I feel like I've seen him before.

A really handsome guy is coming this way.

It's Ryan
Alexander!
My
ex-husband!

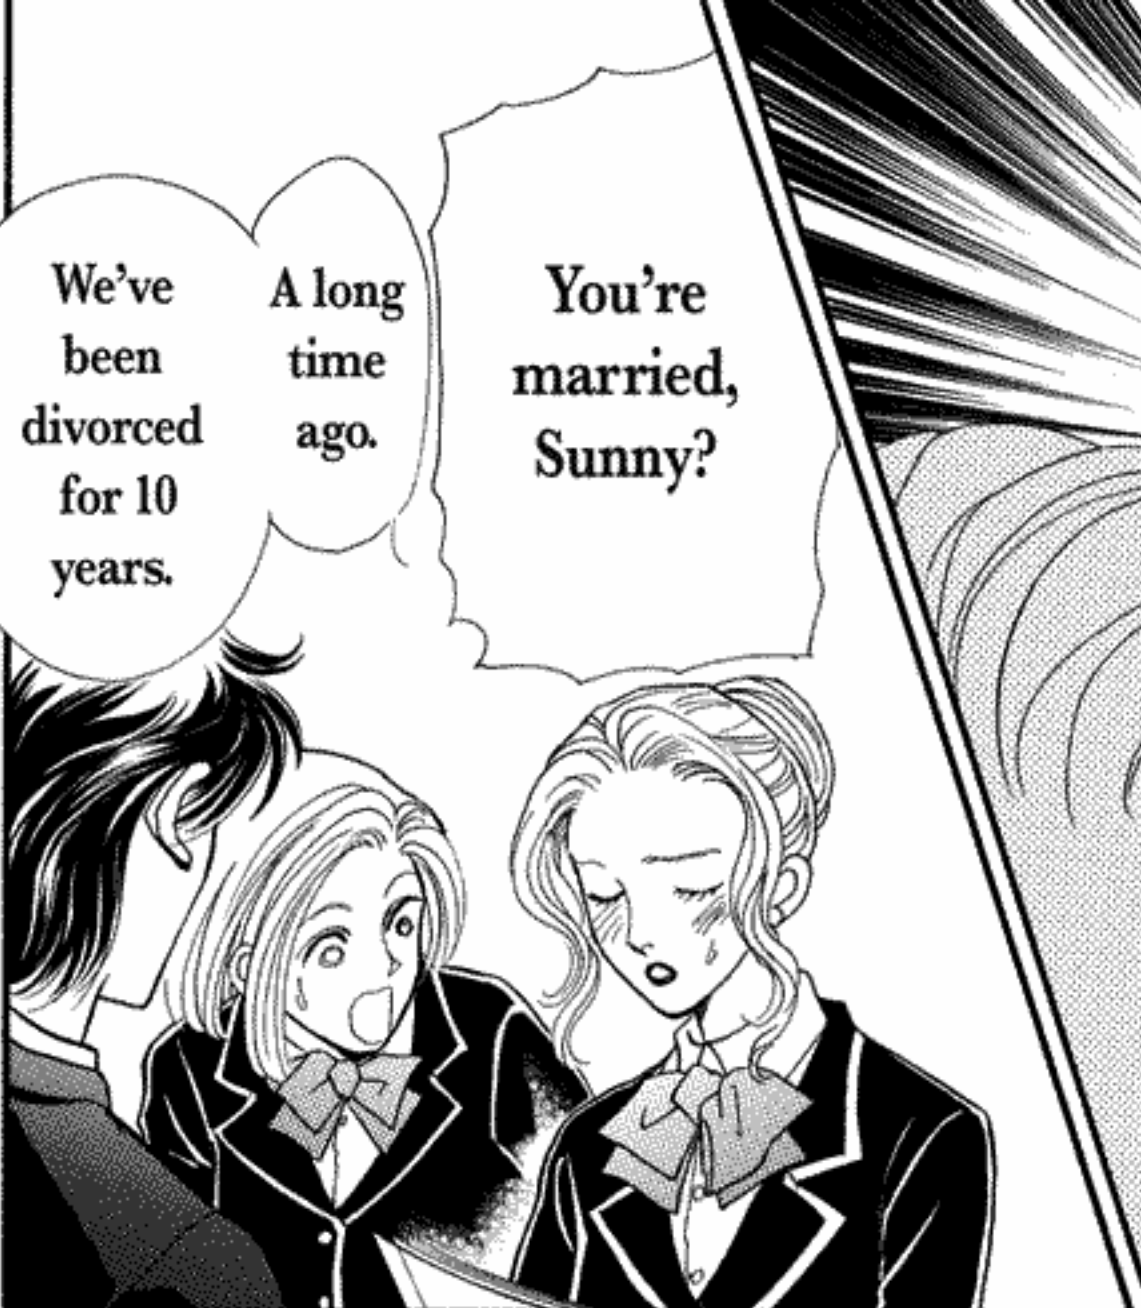

Hello,
Mrs.
Sunny
Alexander.

Something Old, Something New

Junko Okada

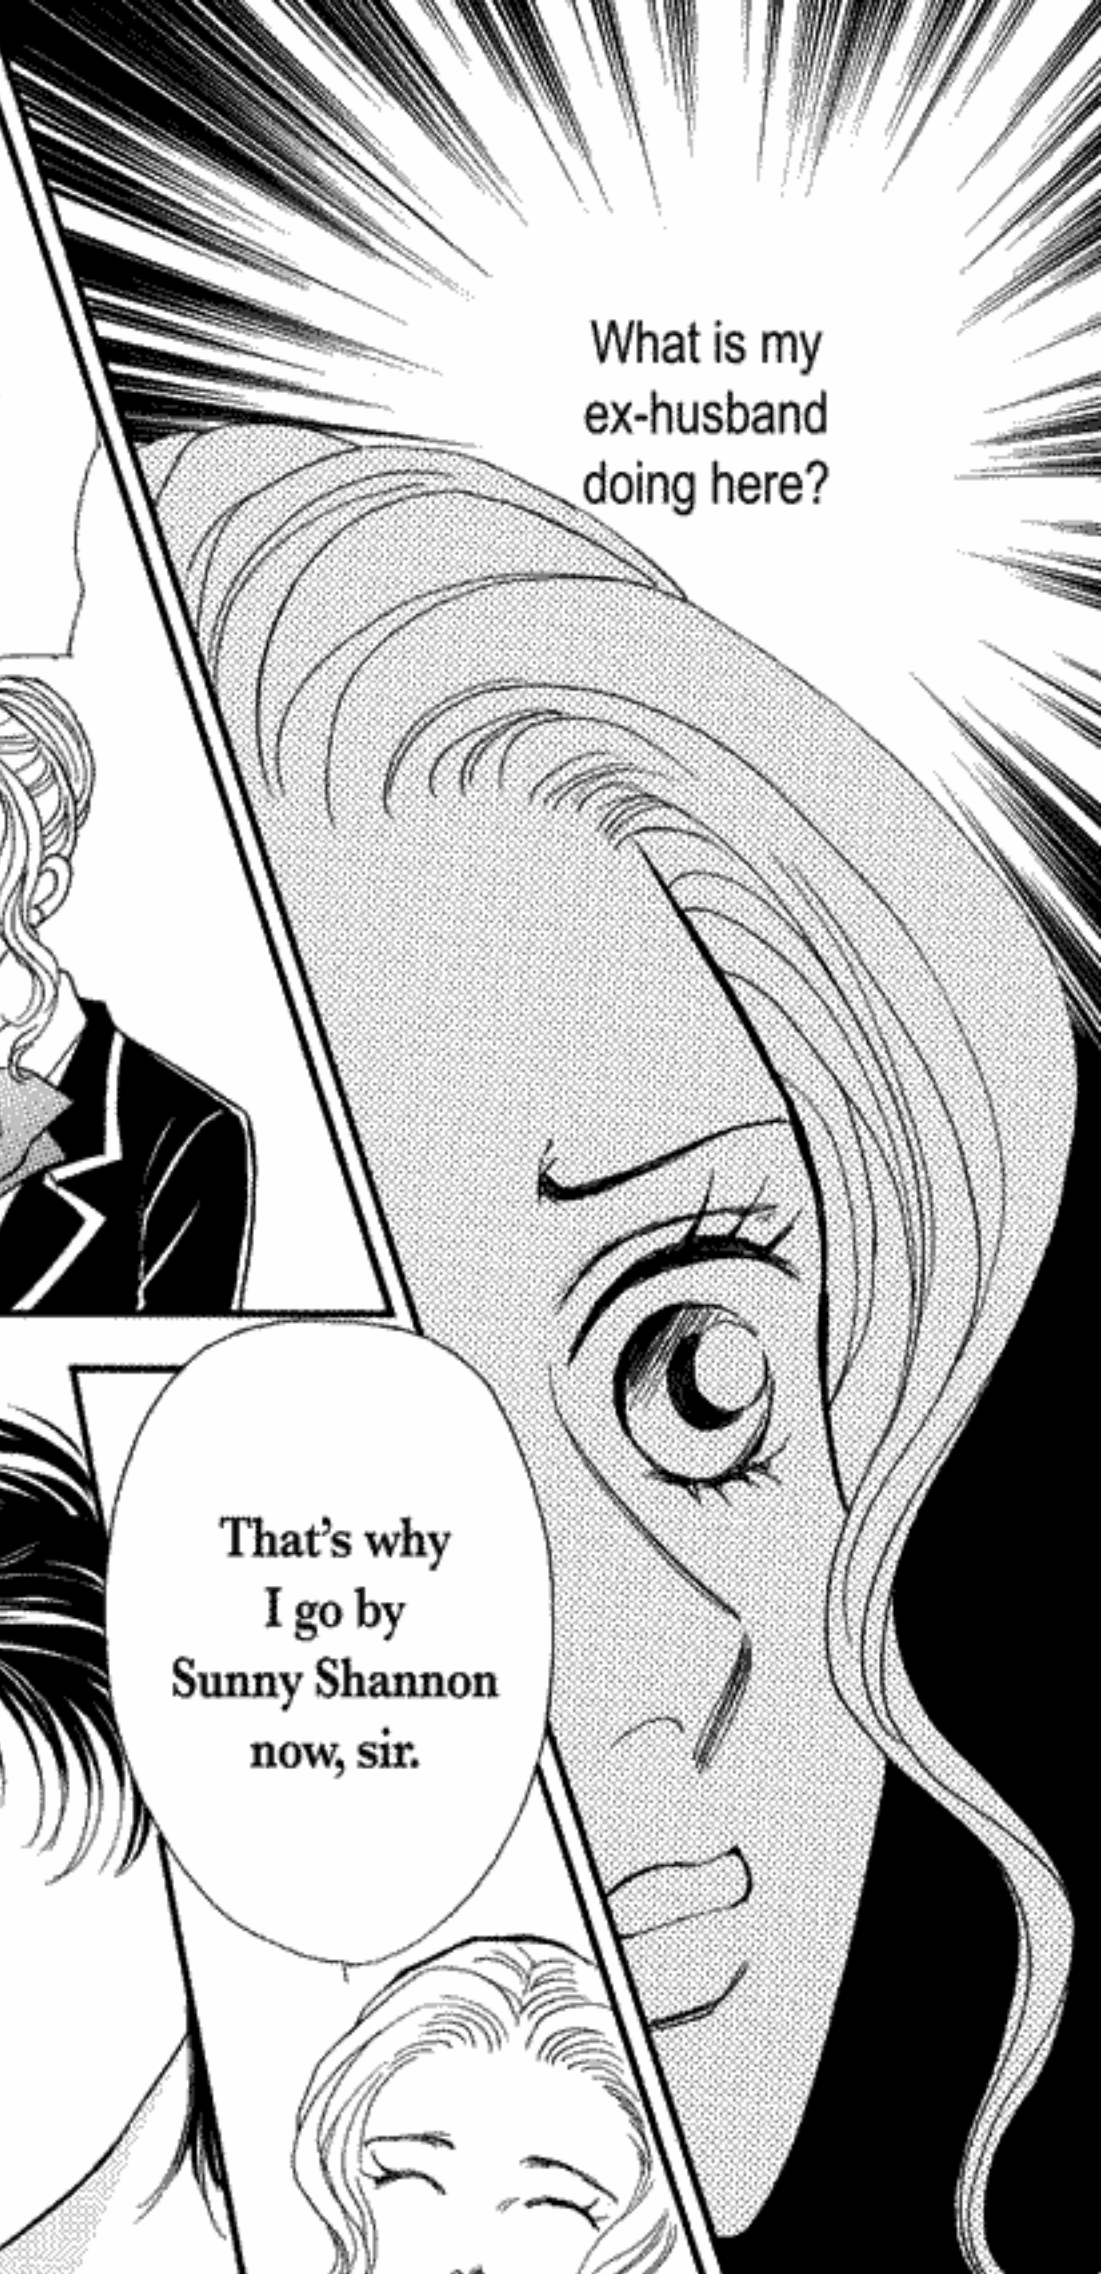

Original Text by Donna Sterling

We've been divorced for 10 years.

A long time ago.

You're
married, Sunny?

What is my ex-husband
doing here?

Too
bad.

That's why
I go by Sunny Shannon
now, sir.

I need you to become
Mrs. Alexander
again.

It's your fault.

You went to Windsong Place.

!?

What?

A mansion at the foot of the mountains in North Carolina.

Windsong Place.

Why don't you go on break, Sunny?

This sounds complicated.

Windsong
Place was my home...

...but my father was so angry
about our wedding
10 years ago
that he sold it.

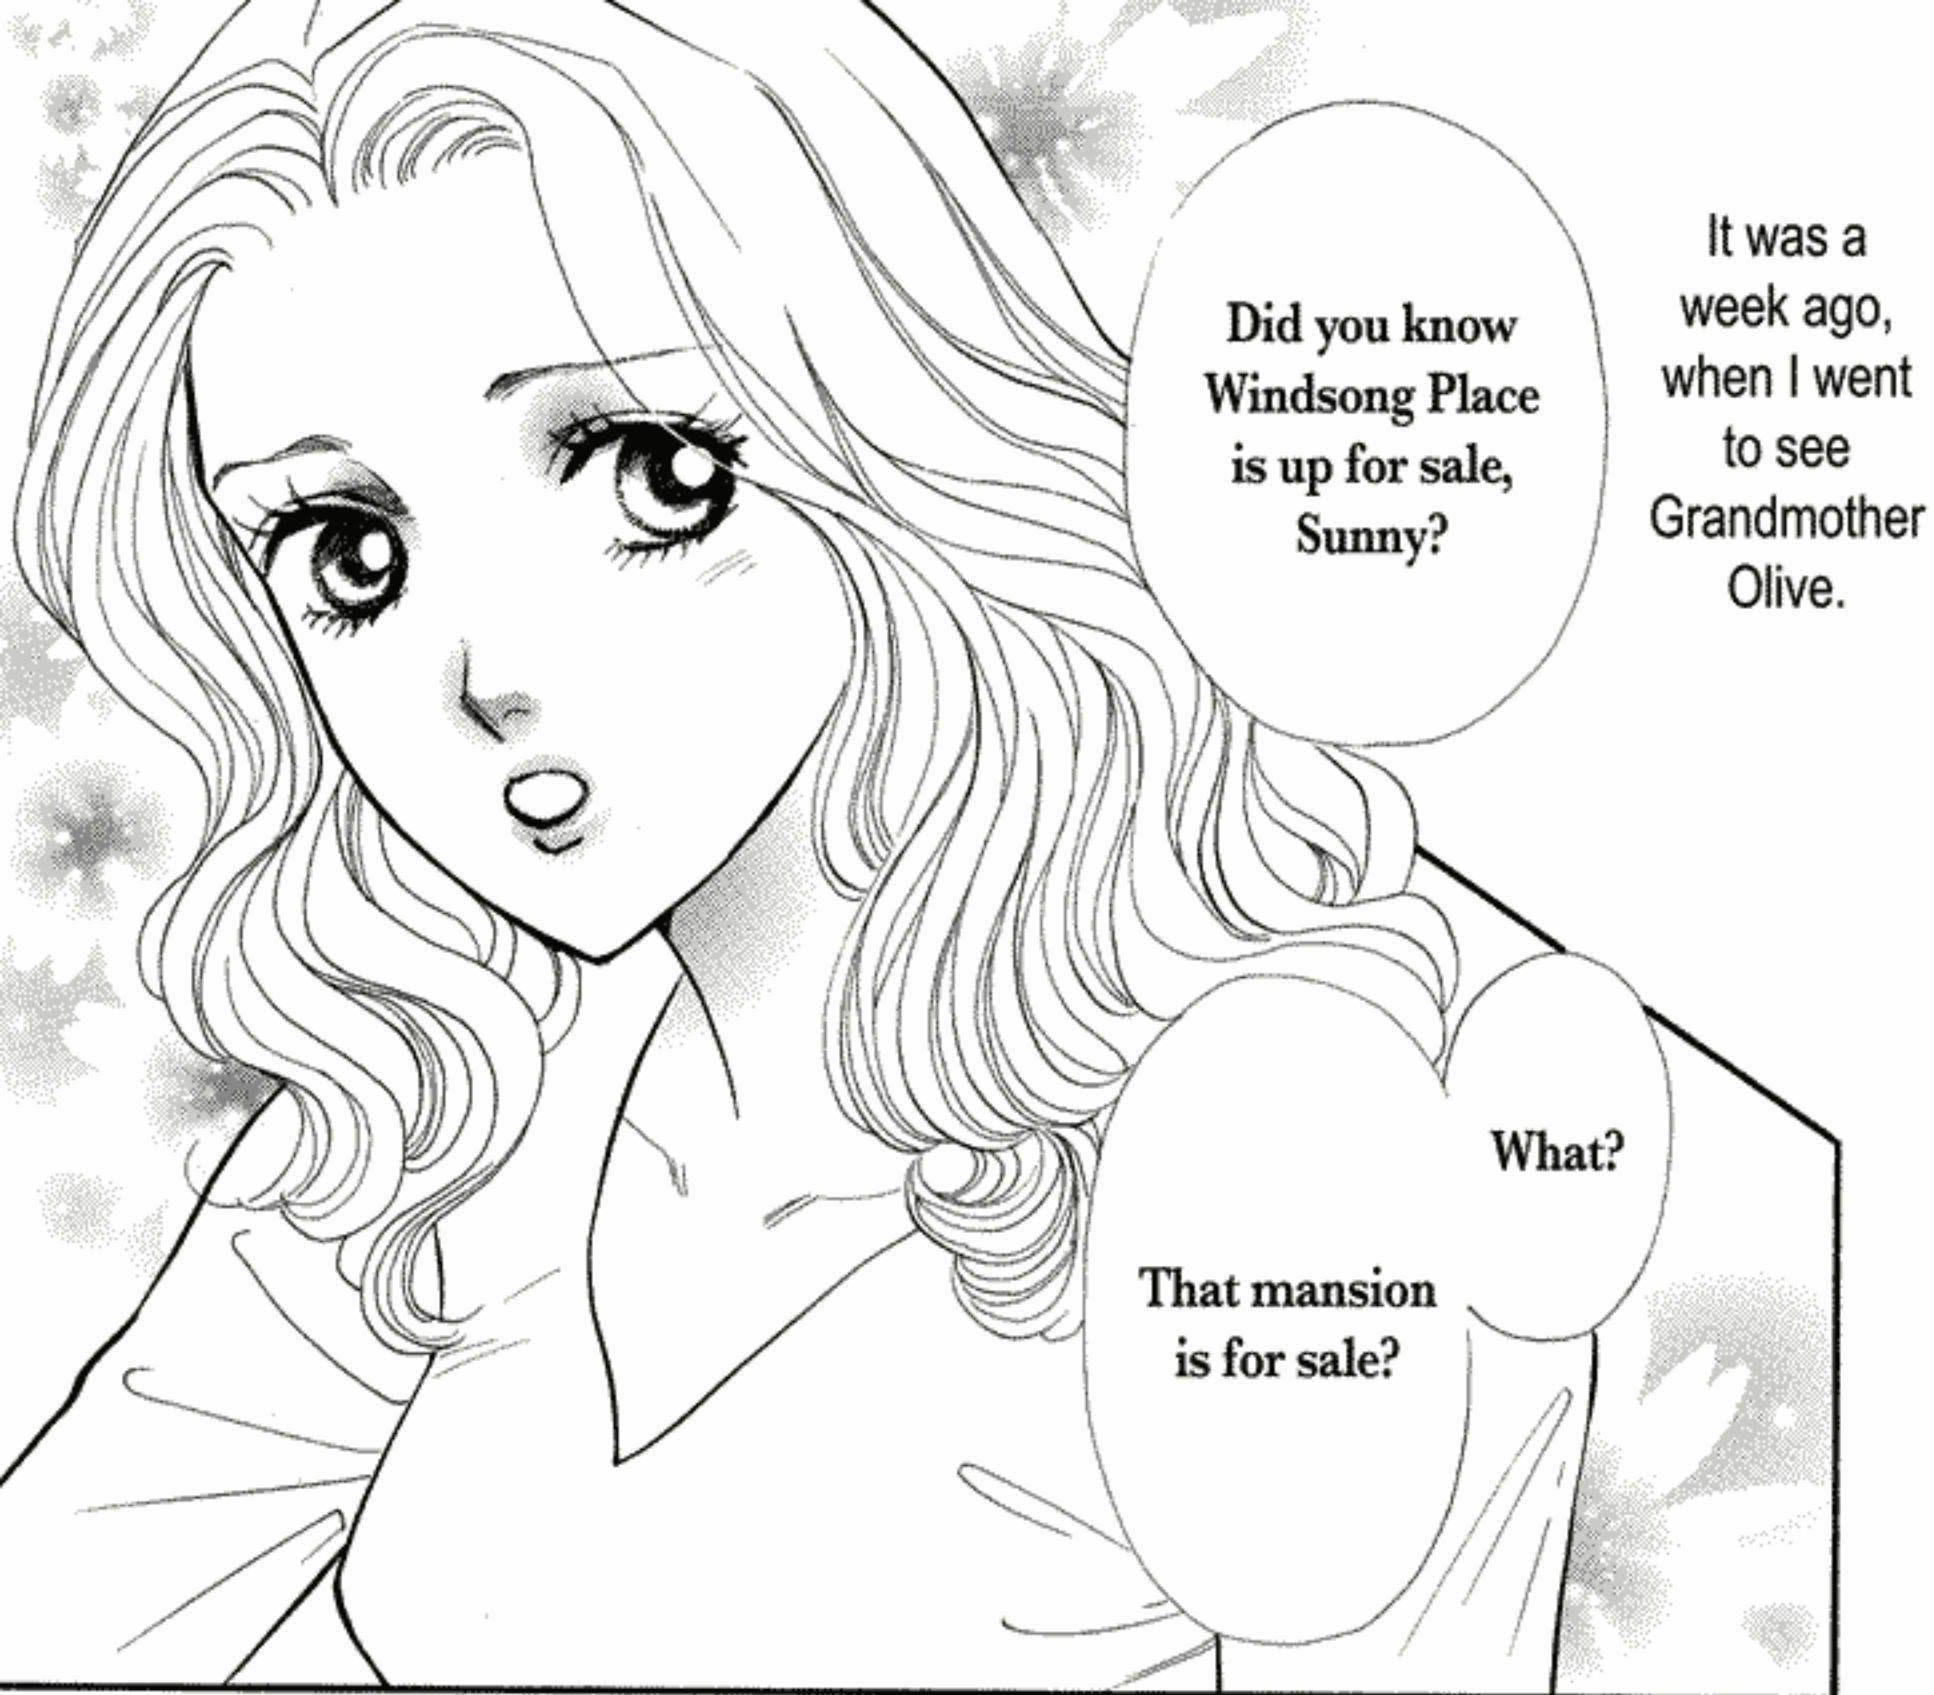

The marriage
only lasted three months, anyway...

Yes.

Grandmother
told me.

You knew,
right?

Windsong
Place is up for sale again.

Does Ryan
know about this?

Ryan and I have known each other since childhood.

Windsong Place
is the mansion
I grew up in.

I was born in that place and started working there as a maid
when I was 16.

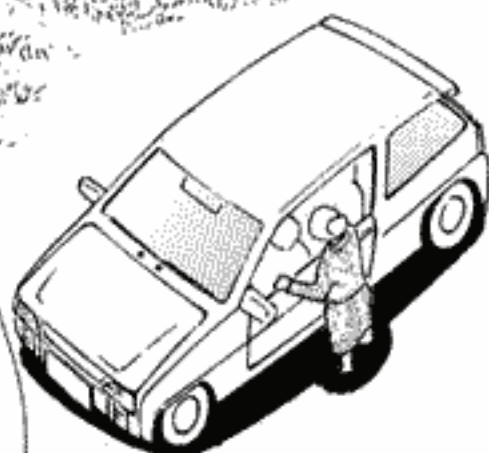

Clever
girl.

You don't want to move away from it,
do you?

It's been so long since
I retired from being the maid
at Windsong
Place.

Don't treat me like such an old woman.
I'm fine by myself.

I don't intend to die without seeing my granddaughter
happily married.

With your recent heart
surgery,
I've been worried about you.

Won't you come live with me?

I can't let her keep living by herself forever.

I would,
if I had one!

Next time,
bring your boyfriend.

Grandmother Olive raised me in my mother's place.

It's been made into a hotel.

Windsong
Place...

Do you like the hotel?

My mother was more interested in chasing love than raising children and left me with Grandmother.

That's when I met Ryan,
who was two years older.

No.

Are you staying there?

You've been staring at it for a long time.

This
place...

...it holds a lot of memories for me.

...and we got married.

here...

I...

I just love
romance.

How
romantic.

Oh,
my.

What is Ryan
doing here?
