

Fairbanks,
Alaska

*He's the one
who hired me
as the manager
of this place.*

*The owner
of the lodge
I've been working at
has passed
away.*

*His son, Clay,
and I cared
for him up
until his last
moments.*

*He left the
lodge in my
care and was
hospitalized,
battling his
sickness for half a year.*

*I wonder what will happen to
the lodge, now
that the owner
is gone...*

Gina—

Come into the office
for a bit.

Clay?

There's
something
important that I need to talk
to you about.

Clay was left
to handle an
air transport
business by his father.

S...sure!

so please
let me
continue
this job!

Even though
the owner
passed away,
I'm still working as hard as I was before,

I...

Uh,
um...

I guess
he also manages the lodge, as well.

*If you wish to inherit the lodge
and air transport
facility after I die,*

*then you must first
marry within three months.*

Also, you must continue to be married for at least one year.

*If you violate this
will, then the lodge,
as well as the air
transport facility...*

...shall be sold off.

After which, all proceeds shall be donated to...

...a fund to protect wild animals.

*Your father,
John McCormick*
